PROFILE

I am a 7th-semester Information Systems student at Universitas Komputer Indonesia, Bandung, specializing in Full-Stack Web Development. My technical skills have been tested and enriched through intensive study programs and internships, where I mastered both the Frontend and Backend sides of various core technologies. Outside of academics, I am active in student organizations, serving as Secretary of the Information Systems Student Association. This role has successfully honed my non-technical skills, including communication, accuracy, teamwork, public speaking, and leadership.
